

IN-SEASON TEST – BUDAPEST, JULY 31 - AUGUST 1

Budapest, August 1, 2018

Mario Isola, Head of Car Racing – “We saw no real surprises in this test, both when it came to the tyres used regularly during the year, and with the prototype tyres that were being tested by Toro Rosso. All the teams additionally had two sets of a soft compound tyre with a different construction to try out, which gives an idea of the direction that we are going in for 2019, but which aren’t of course the definitive versions. Although we had some rain yesterday and also an accident to the Toro Rosso that was testing our prototypes, most teams managed to complete their intended programmes and we gained some useful data to analyse. We now have one final development test, with Ferrari and Mercedes in September, before the 2019 constructions are definitively fixed in early October”.
